TECHWOLF

THE DEAL IS DONE TechWolf is now officially a part of SAP and we're gearing up for our fastest growth chapter yet 🦈🚀🟡

TechWolf x SAP: our next chapter

We started TechWolf eight years ago to help people flourish at work. That purpose hasn't changed, but the world around us has. Today every company redesigns work all the time, and those decisions need context about the work and the people doing it. That's why we're building the context layer for work and the workforce. Joining SAP is the start of an exciting next chapter. What stays: our brand, our pack, our culture, our pace, and a context layer that works with every system and agent

Here's what we're going after with SAP..

01 We're growing faster, to many more companies.

AI is pushing every large employer to change how work gets done and who does it, and very few have figured it out. We already help some of the world's biggest companies, and now we can build on SAP's worldwide sales network and its experience with large enterprises to bring our technology to many more of them. At the same time, we keep serving every customer, whatever system they run.

02 We're building a world-class AI team, in Ghent.

Ghent remains our HQ, and it's where we'll do most of our hiring: engineers, AI builders and product people who raise the bar for everyone around them. We work at startup speed with SAP's scale behind us, on real problems for the largest companies in the world. Ghent will become the best place to do applied AI work.

03 We're innovating even faster, close to where work happens.

We've always been at the forefront of innovation, and we've always moved fast. We've built our own AI models since 2018, and we're accelerating into agentic AI. Agents need more context than HR systems hold, because much of how work gets done shows up in the business systems where it happens. Being part of SAP brings us closer to that work. Our CTO will also move to San Francisco in 2027, to be as close as possible to where AI moves fastest.

To everyone who got us here: thank you. We've never had more ahead of us, and we're more ambitious than ever. Customers, partners, future Wolves: come build what's next with us.

AWOO!

PS. Curious to learn more about TechWolf? We just launched the TechWolf Academy, open to anyone. Start with the TechWolf Foundations to learn about our mission, our product, our models and the value we bring. More is on the way.